News from the Library

Fiction is one of our most popular genres, but there are shelves full of nonfiction that would hold your interest - like Same Kind of Different as Me by Ron Hall and Denver Moore. Could any two men be more different? Ron Hall is an "upscale art dealer accustomed to the world of Armani and Chanel." Denver Moore is "a dangerous, homeless, drifter who grew up picking cotton in virtual slavery." What could possibly draw these two men together and form a bond of friendship that would last? Would you believe that the providence of God could do that? Of course! There is no other believable explanation. Read the book and discover the unlikely story of these two men and the woman who was the link between them.

Covenant Christian Fellowship

As we write this article, the holidays are approaching and CCF is looking forward to Friday, December 2nd when we will joyfully celebrate Christmas with a catered Herb Roasted Chicken Dinner at 5:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall, followed at 7:00 p.m. by a Christmas Concert with vocal music students from Benson High School.

Be sure this special CCF Christmas Celebration is on your busy calendar...and please make reservations ($8.00) at the Welcome Center on November 13, 20 or 27. Guests are always welcome!

Threatened with extinction and challenged by the faithful efforts of previous officers, we thank the current Team members for their enthusiastic commitment to planning and executing this year's five gatherings. Thank you to those who supported the Team efforts by volunteering to serve on committees for each CCF event. Thank you to many who "passed by the hat" leaving a contribution. Thanks to those who invited friends to share a time of fellowship. Thanks to folks who provided a ride to someone who otherwise would not or could not have joined us. Thank you to each one who has attended and supported CCF in it's mission to provide a welcoming and caring fellowship, a good meal and enjoyable programs as well. If this year achieved that goal, to God be the glory!

Annually, at this time of year, CCF makes plans for the changes in CCF leadership. This year's Team is looking for replacements and asks that "CCFers" give prayerful thought to assuming a Team position for the coming year. Your outgoing Team members promise to assist and support those who would step forward to assume Team leadership positions. Catering options and minimized responsibilities have been implemented, along with program suggestions for future Team consideration. If you are led to assure and share in CCF's future, please visit with Dale and Linda Shallberg (402-397-4440) or any of this year's Team members.

Thanksgiving Blessings! See you December 2nd!

Swallowing Coin Lithium Batteries

A Serious Threat to Small Children

Today, cars start with the push of a button, greeting cards light up and sing, books record our voices and thousands of electronics operate by remote control. To keep our gadgets small, slim and sleek, many are powered by coin lithium batteries. But because many of these devices are not designed for use by children, the battery compartments can be very easy to open. As use of coin-sized button batteries has become more widespread, so has the risk that a small child will swallow one. Tragically, this can cause life-changing disabilities or even death. And it is preventable.

Who Is At Risk

In 2010 alone, there were more than 3,400 reported swallowing cases in the U.S. involving all sizes of button batteries. This resulted in 19 serious injuries, and some children died.* The threat is growing – fast. Swallowing cases resulting in serious injury or death to children has more than quadrupled in the past five years (2006-2010) compared to the five years prior (2001-2005). The most serious cases are associated with 20mm diameter batteries, about the size of a nickel, because they can easily lodge in a small child's throat. All fatalities and 85 percent of major injuries were among children 4-years-old and younger.

The Danger

Basically, when a battery gets stuck in a child's throat, the saliva triggers an electrical current. This triggers a chemical reaction that can severely burn the esophagus in as little as two hours. Once the burning reaction begins, it can continue even after the battery is removed. Sadly, repairing the damage is painful and can require feeding tubes, breathing tubes and multiple surgeries. In some cases, children who have swallowed button batteries have died. Batteries placed in the nose, ear and other areas can also cause severe tissue damage.

Treatment + Prevention

To keep children safe, parents should keep battery-controlled devices out of sight and out of reach and lock away loose batteries. They should also tell friends, family members, sitters and caregivers about this important issue. If a coin-sized button battery is swallowed, we urge parents to follow these steps:

- Go to the emergency room immediately, and tell doctors and nurses that it might be a battery.
- If possible, provide the medical team with the identification number found on the battery's package.
- Do not let the child eat or drink until a chest x-ray can determine if a battery is present.
- Do not induce vomiting.

Service of Hope and Remembrance

Again this year the Congregational Care team will sponsor the service of Hope and Remembrance. This service will honor the memory of loved ones of members of our congregation who have gone to live with Jesus since Nov 1, 2010. This service will be held on November 6, All Saints Sunday, at 2PM in the chapel. All those who grieve the loss of family members are welcome to attend to remember their loved ones on this special occasion.

Thank You

Dear Friends-

Paul and I would like to thank you so much for the wonderful time we had at Family Camp at Covenant Cedars over Labor Day.

What a joy it was to see our granddaughter, Noel Newberg, be baptized on Sunday evening. You knew God was there.

Thanks for all the church has done for Kirk, Debbie, Noel and Nels. May God Bless you all.

Love in Christ,
Paul & Eddie Leu Newberg

Dear First Covenant Family,

We would like to thank you for all of the love that you have given us. Not just recently, but throughout the years. This church has been the biggest blessing in our lives since we have moved to Omaha. We have benefited from countless acts of love from our church family.

We especially thank you for the outpouring of love since the passing of our husband and father John Philip Pidak. We are forever grateful for our trip to Sudan to attend our father's burial and reunite with our family. That would not have been possible without all of your generous love and faithful contributions to the church.

More than any tangible or financial gift, we thank you for your hugs, listening ears, cards, phone calls, and prayers. We are very happy and thankful to belong to such an amazing and loving community. We are sure that John Philip Pidak would be overjoyed to see the care you have given us.

God gives, and he takes away, but that is beyond our understanding. However, "We know that all things work together for the good of those who love God-those whom he has called according to his plan." Romans 8:28. And in John's words "We will see what God, He will do." In addition, we would also like to thank you for your overall acceptance and support of the Sudanese community here in Omaha, NE. God bless all of you, your families, and this church!

Love and blessings,

Rebecca Alake, Deborah, Nema, Raja, Samuel, Aleena, and John's immediate family in Sudan
